

Teacher Appreciation Week

May 7 – 11, 2012

Dear Room Parents,

Teacher Appreciation Week will be celebrated at LJES during the week of May 7-11, 2012

Teachers and staff perform many tasks daily and often do extra duties to make their students' lives special. They put in extra time, energy and money into their classes. Many nights and weekends are spent grading papers or planning the next day's lessons. These are moments when teachers shine. As a parent, you play a significant role in recognizing these accomplishments. This is the time to let our teachers know how much we appreciate all they do. Just one or two sentences of thanks can give a teacher a real lift. Feel free to use the attached apple paper or create your own card.

Additionally, we recommend that you try to do something special each day of Teacher Appreciation Week. For example, have each child bring a flower to create a beautiful bouquet, or bring bagels, and the teacher's favorite coffee or tea one morning... be creative! The following pages offer some suggestions to follow for the week.

It does not need to be complicated, just a short note of thanks can mean so much! Thank you for all you do for your child's class,
